Summery skies make me realise if you weren't here
Nothing would be the same
Starry nights dancing in the candlelight
When the morning comes
Will you remember my name?

Is it just the time of season
Do we really mean the things we say?
All things happen for a reason
As night follows the day
Love that was once strong could fade away

Could it be our luck was destiny?
We've got nothing to lose
We know we mustn't play games

Spread your wings
For you I would do anything
When the morning comes
Will you remember my name?

Is it just the time of season
Do we really mean the things we say?
All things happen for a reason
As night follows the day
Love that was once strong could fade away

Spread your wings
For you I would do anything
When the morning comes
Will you remember my name?

Spread your wings
For you I would do anything
When the morning comes
Will you remember my name?
Will you remember my name?
Will you remember my name?
