sitting here for hours just listening to the rain waiting for the showers to dissapear i'm losing track of time it's been going on for days at times like these i can't believe the sky will clear they say the wheatherman is smiling right up there on the screen

they say outside the sun is shining but it don't feel that
way to me
i wish i knew what to do to chase the clouds away cause every moment spent without you is just another rainy day it's getting out of hand all my friends think i'm insane but they don't understand the way i feel....no i never thought that losing you would turn my blue skies grey the tears i cry are hard to hide now you're not here with me

they say the wheatherman is smiling right up there on
the screen
way to me

rainy day without you baby and though the world won't stop for you it's not that i don't want it to
i wish i knew what to do to chase the clouds away
cause every moment spent without you

they say the wheatherman is smiling right up there on
the screen
way to me

cause every moment spent without you

they say the weatherman is smiling right up there on the screen
way to me
cause every moment spent without you
