You and me all alone in the weather, it's certainly never rained this hard!

Creatively i drew a picture on some paper, i drew our names and in the middle was a heart.

I have a bag full of polaroid pictures, here's a funny one of us in the snow. Do you remember driving ours to get there and when we did we wanted out of the cold?

If i came to your house and i blew a kiss your way, would you come out?

I wrote down on your door step in a black felt pen thirteen hundred assets you have over them.

I love you and i want you back.

Here's a pretty one of you with your hair up, here's another on of us by the beach.

I can't remember ever getting so sunburnt, love is a wonderful thing until your standing all alone in the weather and every intelligent remark you should make is obviously not making things better.

So she finally walks away...

I left a number, note, my address and all my plans. I prayed to god she would love me back but she's still not here!

If i came to your house and i blew a kiss your way, would you come out?

I wrote down on your door step in a black felt pen thirteen hundred assets you have over them.

I love you and i want you back.

Irrespective of ho much it means to fall in love, it's always a great idea until the heart break comes and changes your mind, like it did to mine!

If i came to your house and i blew a kiss your way, would you come out?

I wrote down on your door step in a black felt pen thirteen hundred assets you have over them.

I love you and i want you back.
