If I wasn't born to love you
Why was I born at all
If I wasn't meant to hold you
What are these two arms for

If I can't protect you
What are these muscles for
If I can't enrich your life
I might as well be poor

If I couldn't see you naked
Oh, I might as well be blind
If I couldn't treat you right
Wouldn't I be so unkind

You were made for me
You were made for me
You weren't born to be alone
And you were made for me
You were made for me
You were made for me
Flesh and bone, etched in stone
You were made for me

Aren't you?
You

If I couldn't translate fantasy
Oh, imagine how I'd feel
If I couldn't hear your secret
My ears would both be sealed

If I can't make love to you
This body has no use
If you believe I loved you
You wouldn't need no proof

And if I can't return to you
Oh, I wouldn't need my legs to run
And if I can't draw warmth from you
Why do I need the sun

And you were made for me
You were made for me
You weren't born to be alone
And you were made for me
You were made for me
You were made for me
Flesh and bone, etched in stone
You were made for me

Aren't you?
You

You were made for me
You were made for me
You weren't born to be alone
You were made for me
You were made for me
You were made for me
Flesh and bone, etched in stone
You were made for me

Made for me
Made for me
You weren't born to be alone
You were made for me
