

Ely Falls "Tradewinds"

Visit "Tradewinds" on MotoLyrics.com

Two hands are floating, they were one in the same
I tried my best to keep that look from your face
But I don't see that happening
I wrote it down and made a note of the time
Sent you letter but you never replied
So now I'm missing you again
Now I'm missing you

When did the emptiness begin?
Because my heart was always in it's way
To feel the cold air brush my eyes and
Notice that the sky was pouring the color of your

Must be the way I miss the words that you say
Keeping my distance because I don't want to feel like
I was pushing you away
Fold up the map and see the red leaves fall
From every dream that made up every thought
Of you and I here together

When did the emptiness begin?
Because my heart was always in it's way
To feel the cold air brush my eyes and
Notice that the sky was pouring the color of your skin

Two hands were floating they were one in the same
We tried our best to keep the look off your face
But we just couldn't take it anymore

Visit Ely Falls page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.