"Under the Whether"

You've got me standing under the "whether or not" I am trying to understand your indecision. It all depends on "whether or not" you can, you say, on "whether or not" you will. It all depends on "whether or not" you stay. But, you can never depend on the "whether;" it is so unpredictable Your indecision strikes me down, Light incision through a cloud. You want your days both sunny and grey, you want me to stick around. You want it both ways. Can't have it both ways You want it both ways. You've got me standing under the "whether or not." I am trying to understand your indecision.... You can't expect me to stand here. Under the "whether," under the Unclear You've got to make up your mind, you've got to let me inside you've got to make up your mind, you've got to decide You can't have it both ways, make up your mind can't have it both ways, make up your mind. You've got me standing under the "whether or not" you've got me caught under your "whether or not."
