How many times will it repeat? These hands that search for you softly touch the nape of your neck by my kiss, death will come
"Forgive me..."

Futility like a shimmering haze makes this love grow until it breaks
Even my awareness of the sin is erased curing this body's thirst

igniting the flame that will die away a sweet, fragrant pulse

Countin the scatterd flowers, this pain that has started to ache again...

These overflowing urges stain this distroyed world in crison
My confused heart is withered away your warmth travel through my body

Fallen in the infinite darkness why would god forgive me?
Even this soild existence abandoning the light completly
