Somebody had better
Leave before I get better,
Well enough to see you're not the one,
Well enough to measure
That it couldn't last forever,
Words I keep repeating
Are more real now they're wrong
Cause I've seen hurt like this before and I can only slow its cause.

Judge me like a stone,
Skim the surface of the real wrong
Between us couldn't be
Just because you're old to me
Cause I've seen others make much more,
With limits we know nothing of.

And I won't be keeping score

As you wave goodbye,
Cause I know what losing's for
It's for when we try.
And I know my luck is covered up in lies,
And I feel like a sinner every time
I have to let you down,
And I don't know how I ever let you down.

You say you're gonna leave,
But you won't get over me
Cause I've seen others make much more
With limits we know nothing of.
