in the lake you will find me behind your house behind your house and from that lake i will remind you of your promises broken your cruel words spoken my ocean is bluer than the heart you had to break my sea is deeper than your lake my sea is deeper than your lake

take those steps down come to the waterside drown and hide how many bodies are buried beneath those rocks i told you there was one and now you know whose it is mine mine mine

behind your house behind your house...
