Too late today, for the sky to open
No living place lay here for the sky to fall no one remembers when the wheel was broken
Made a rut so deep, made a massive hole
Made a man so small

I don't want to see that girl
Always got something going wrong inside her pretty head
I dont want to be that girl

Too late today for an open moment
A stray temptation's all in her touch
And on the way, not a word was spoken

There's not much to say
Already gave some, already gave too much

I dont want to be that girl Who can't get over it
Have been dumped and living it, and it shows
