life flashes before you and then its taken away and then there so much that u never got to say but its okay you just gotta hold on to faith never look up and say gods name in vein just say grace and know that your loved one is safe buried away floating up into a better place it's like a race you just gotta learn how to pace and save face because you dont wanna be the disgrace
a bitter taste like your mind is starting to decay accept the case know that the persons there to stay from my heart up to my spine all the way to my mind i need a sanctuary where my thoughts can unwind a wound like this can only be binded by time but i see something gods giving me a sign he says stand tall be tough stop all the cryin i look through you and i can see your inner lining i can see that your heart is about to break but why god why for heavens sake why did you take that person away couldnt you wait now it's too late but he has a bigger plan all my views and beliefs this is where i stand im so down im strayin from the topic at hand
