Who are you now? I can't see past the mask you wear a smile who are you know? you faces shines like the sun but your hate has life of its own who are you now? impure from the onset you desire to destroy who are you now? you saw the seeds of dissent in the name of free speech the only love you know if for yourself your opinions change with the seasons as do your beliefs with a smile you twist the blade your words are bitter they bring no relief your ego knows no bounds if only you knew you can say so much with you silence contain your thoughts open your mind shut your mouth you weapon of discourse let this be the lesson learned that there is another way I will never tolerate your endless lies your foolish words fall on deaf ears I will never tolerate your endless lies you will fall face first on the platform
you adore you use the weak to expound your shallow views you have nothing left to say you are less than nothing who are you now? I can't see past the mask you wear a smile that shines like the sun who are you now? who are you now?
