The night has no mercy for those who can not sleep
Darkness is growing heavier, every minute
And the daylight is forever away forever away
Every sound every shadow grows
To the point of madness
Darkness is growing heavier, every minute
And the daylight is forever away forever away

Every sigh that escapes your lips
Race against the wall coming back
Multiplied a thousand times
You twist and you turn
You think you're in flames and you burn
In the moonlight that insults your eyes

It all comes in circles and so it's meant to be
Together then separated again
In this moment when the daylight is forever away forever away
For a while for a second there you get a hold on brightness
But the silence is breathing heavier
Every minute and the daylight is forever away forever away

Come with me
Come and see
I'll take you
Where no-one has been
And you'll breath easily

It all comes in circles and so it's meant to be
Together then separated again
In this moment when the daylight is forever away
