And I, I know a place where fear cannot find you
And I, I know a place where sorrow and rage cannot follow you Ever since I've known you, you've been searching for the writing on the truth in life Ever since I've known you, you've been reaching for something that was just out of sight

Will you meet me there on the street of dreams?
Will you meet me there someday?
Will you meet me there on the street of dreams?
Will you meet me there someday

And I, I know a place where fate is your reality
And I, I know a place where voices of love are a symphony
The streets that you've been walking all these years are so unyielding, so desolated
All the faces you have worn to hide your tears, did they wear you out, leave you tired and jaded?

Will you meet me there on the street of dreams?
Will you meet me there someday?
Will you meet me there on the street of dreams?
Will you meet me there someday

Wandering so, wandering so
When will you find a place called home?
Wandering so, when will you find a home

Will you meet me there on the street of dreams?
Will you meet me there someday?
Will you meet me there on the street of dreams?
Will you meet me there someday, someday

Will you meet me there on the street of dreams?
Will you meet me there someday?
Will you meet me there on the street of dreams?
Will you meet me there, oh, someday
