Another lonesome morning
Another long lonesome day
You'll have to live without him
The morning seemed to say

Another lonesome morning
You thought you didn't care
But morning breezes find you
Wishing he were there

Come way
Sing this same
Old song
Trying hard to please

And you hear the sounds
That he used to love
Through the rustling of the leaves
Through the rustling of the leaves

Your losing him has taught you
That wanted him to stay
And you now that all another
Lonesome morning brings

Is another lonesome day
Oh, another lonesome day
Is another lonesome day
Is another lonesome day
