I wish I had a dime for every bad time
But the bad times always seem to keep the change
And you been all alone so you know what I'm sayin'
And when all you can recall is the pain.

Just you wait until tomorrow when you wake up with me
At your side and find I haven't lied about nothin'
And I wouldn't trade a tree for the way I feel about you
In the mornin', anyhow I love you.

--- Instrumental ---

Everyday it gets just a little bit better
And half the gettin' there is knowin' where I been before
And I'm sure you understand 'cause I ain't your first man
And when you feel like runnin' for the back door. don't.

Just you wait until tomorrow when you wake up with me
At your side and find I haven't lied about nothin'
And I wouldn't trade a tree for the way I feel about you
In the mornin', anyhow I love you.
