

Bloodlet

"Learn to Fly: Descent"

Visit "Learn to Fly: Descent" on MotoLyrics.com

I had been awake for several days with time to think it had been so long since I needed sleep to dream another fine day slip away no time to think I need a drink
I hear it smells like candy in a baby's mind as long as I remember mine smelled of wine man that orange flavored thunderbird ain't got me feeling so fine now I'm smelling like bourbon flavored pork rinds in the government cheese line drinking warm O.E. in the morning sunlight I drive a rust flavored thunderbird and she ain't feeling so fine they call her the hate tank she is rolling three on the tree I got a nephew named Lucifer you know he takes after me a liter of sourmash to ease the pain I'm still hoping one day I will drink myself sane another fine day slips away no time to think I need a drink mama didn't love me she loved her percocet at age 13 I set out to become king but I became the joker instead I have been alone for 100 days with time to think when life eats itself I will say goodbye the salt in my beard is all I got to eat but I've managed to stay high for the past 2 weeks woke up this morning with 2 black eyes I've been sleeping in the dumpster again and I don't know why

I hear it smells like candy in a baby's mind as long as I can remember that mine smelled of wine they say I smell like the reefer ya know I'm high all the time now I'm smelling like bourbon flavored pork rinds in the government cheese line

Visit Bloodlet page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

