Remember the days when
Two young boys did not concede to defeat?
No questions, no answers.
We know what we wanted and how to succeed.
We thought we were ready.
We were too young to understand.
We were invincible.

We come together now and talk about the great times
That we shared.
We were growing up with so much time to spare.
This is over now we're searching for a position in this World.
We are in between a place that isn't there.

Say goodbye to the past.
Nothing is sure, nothing will last.
Way to long out of sight,
The day will torn and everything's alright.
A long time since we've met.
Maybe we'll stay, or we'll never come back.
We're always on the run.

We come together now and talk about the great times
That we shared.
We were growing up with so much time to spare.
This is over now we're searching for a position in this World.
We are in between a place that isn't there.

A place that isn't there.

Say goodbye to the past.
Remember the days when we were invincible.

We come together now and talk about the great times
That we shared.
We were growing up with so much time to spare.
This is over now we're searching for a position in this World.
We are in between a place that isn't there.

We are in between a place that isn't there.
We are in between a place that isn't there.
