Coming home to haunt you
To a town that I forgot
And you can let me, let me down
But baby why do you give up?

A soldier falls
He's a warrior
In the battle zone

When the bullets rip in to your heart
We can drain your blood
Not before you lay down all of your rules and such
No kisses

Hands that feel hollow
A symbol on a wall
This isn't healthy, healthy love
But baby why did we give up?

A soldier falls
He's a warrior
In the battle zone

When the bullets rip in to your heart
We can drain your blood
Not before you lay down all of your rules and such
No kisses

I surrender, I surrender you everything
I give over my whole world of make believe
After all in this world you could do much better
You deserve much better then this, better then this,
Better then me

When the bullets rip in to your heart
We can drain your blood
Not before you lay down all of your rules and such
No kisses
