patience, give me patience patience for what's waiting on the other side cut the line, I'm getting better every time and soon it will be your surprise, not mine and if this cannon blast sucks you out of every pore and you forget what words are for honey, you brought it on yourself, now these are the games that you asked for something the sea couldn't swallow and no one else can carry the weight for you now

cut the line, it's something i could never find a way to counter the design, always and endless and so it is, no other cover up to find no other way to make it right
