it was over and i felt a hand run over my head and the wind came and it brought me to the surface of the sand and i realize that you are here to help me understand i have a brother

they were after us, the walls are gone, the pipes are hanging all the money left and you were lost and we were hiding
so i take this time, a time to breathe for all the days they're gone

to find another

only this now, only this now spit at the sea

we move to something new, only when we want to alone on the sea that mothered me
