"World Aflame"

there is a time in darkness
which fills my last hope for a recent warmly light
an outcry from the deepest grounds of hell

I will awake our realm of this new age!

a mount of souls tower heaven and ennoble me
for the declension of sanity, law and fear!
no need for god!

here I cant find no peace.
this is a place I want to BURN! BURN!
set this world aflame!

once no day will ever annihilate this dream
you will arise once new... captures for a deride!
for I will never be reborn!!

no god with sense of grace captured in the trace of pain like paradise shall decay to deceptive gods these lacerate flames fill my lungs
the ancient humanity converts its mind as far as the cross draft its arms this is no place for me to return

but sprouts decrease in the realm of this fading world

on a throne of grace erected by fire and ember we will save this strayed child
so I set this world in flames!
