So much has been given and I don't expect it back
You can only take for so long, until there's nothing left
Burned and forgotten, it's hard to hide the scars
How much more can I take until I'm pushed,
Pushed too far
Another day goes by and I still feel the same
I want to open up but you just drift away
Anyone but me and you might make a change
Right here, no more you've taken everything

Why do I come here, time and time again
When everything I ever gave has never been returned
I know I've set myself up to take another fall
One more drop of blood, but there's nothing left
Nothing left at all

Another day goes by and I still feel the same
I want to open up but you just drift away
Anyone but me and you might make a change
Right here, no more you've taken everything

Don't talk to me about sincerity
When you don't know the word
You used the friends who helped you out
You crossed the bridge than burned it

For the last time (x4)
