"Little Dreamer"

Once there was a boy
Back in time of the heathens
Day after day he just kept dreaming
Things that would make him weaker

His father could not make him see
That there is more than dreams
But he wouldn't listen to the words of his father
'Cause he's a little dreamer

Along his quest for solitude
A wise man came and told him to follow the stars

He ran to the forest
With whirlwinds by his side
He's lost in this world of lies
Take him back where rivers flow upwards

He is the one who lives
Under a moonless sky
Looking for time
Take him back where stars are shining bright

He ran to the forest
With whirlwinds by his side
He's lost in this world of lies
Take him back where rivers flow upwards

He is the one who lives
Under a moonless sky

Far in the lands of ice top mountains
Far on the other side
Pictures are appearing
So serenely into my mind

Far in the lands of meadows of fire
Deep in forgotten life
Memories are drifting away
So silently from light

Along his path of misery

A wise man came and told him to follow the stars

He ran to the forest
With whirlwinds by his side
He's lost in this world of lies
Take him back where rivers flow upwards

He is the one who lives
Under a moonless sky
Looking for time
Take him back where stars are shining bright

Oh, little dreamer
Oh, little dreamer
