And let there be life
One space, a universe.
Our world, born like a blind child
One confined habitat.

And asks the same questions that we ask.
And asks the same questions that we ask.

And let there be life
One soul, one universe.
Our world, born like a blind child
One confined habitat

And asks the same questions that we ask
And asks the same questions that we ask.

And in this frozen landscape,
And in this frozen landscape,
I need you.
I collect the tears
Fallen from even the hardest of eyes
