"Being Not Like You"

Your time is over now
It's time for me to rise
I asked you "Please, oh please help me."
Your answer was "No way."

I can't believe the way I trusted you
I'll never trip again
I was blind and now I clearly see
That I don't need you no more.

So now you see the world is calling me
And throwing you away
So tell me what should I do about it?
And don't go crying for help
'Cause you know what?

I don't care of being just like you
Forgetting all the people and the things they do
I don't care of being just like you
And the only thing that I know is...
I don't care of being just like you
Selling any lie as the only truth
I don't care of being just like you
And the only thing that I'll do is
Being not like you.

So you ran out of gas
And don't you ask me why
You could use some intuition now
That you never had
So you thought you were untouchable
But now you're off your throne
I think you got it just a little late
That it's me you need
But you know what?

I don't care of being just like you
Forgetting all the people and the things they do
I don't care of being just like you
And the only thing that I know is...
I don't care of being just like you
Selling any lie as the only truth

I don't care of being just like you
And the only thing that I'll do is
Being not like you.

So now you see the world is calling me
And throwing you away
So tell me what should I do about it?
And don't go crying for help
'Cause you know what?

I don't care of being just like you
Forgetting all the people and the things they do
I don't care of being just like you
And the only thing that I know is...
I don't care of being just like you
Selling any lie as the only truth
I don't care of being just like you
And the only thing that I'll do is
Being not like you.
