You've got something I want
Something I have long been without
It's the key that opens heaven's front door
It's the dream come true that I'm wishing for
You've got something I want
I can hear my heart fairly shout
It keeps telling me my moment is near
That my rainbow's end is waiting right here
You've got something I want
Something I have just learned about
Though it's plain that I need training in explaining what
I want
I'm sure of one thing, you're that something
For you've become the one thing I want
You've got something I want
Something so mysterious and yet
It's a vision I can touch with my hand
It's a marvel mother nature has planned
You've got something I want
Darling what you've got I must get Something tells me these illusions are real

I believe it's true from what I can feel

You've got something I want

I've thought of nothing else since we met

I'm on fire with desire to acquire what I want

For I know that you are what so very few are

And everything that you are, I want

I want
