I remember back in the days we used to live so right not word about a thang just ridin my bike clicked up with the homies at the school house ballin after dark I hear my teacher at the front door callin I aint leavin til I hit this J sittin in my mouth walkin home hella high passed out on the couch those were the dayz dead now things did change takin dibs and yellin out young thugs names tappin phones tappin homes best watch yo back get gd up in your life stop worshipin scratch leave the dope game alone and find your way back home give love to the thugs that are passed and gone

(chorus)

been so long I miss my homies been so long I really miss my homies we keep eachother strong they never left me lonely been so long I really miss my homies

(killa tay)

there are so many homies to this game but will it change got me goinin the same livin the range ?????? the brain feelin the pain wonderin if ill ever see my G's again dependin on god to GLD when I need a friend resistin to take been on my own since my childhood pouirin out some hennesse of memory of enale wood prayin for peace but still these streets gettin worse we livin revalation so I'm headed back to church ajusted my mind remained ricuse raisin my sons officially made no more stressin we infested in funds im still thuggin money cant change me still free until I'm six feet deep I rest in piece

(chorus)

(marvaless)

rememberin some times about the old school days when we was rippin verses strictly for the love of the game talent shows were the thang and all the sessions were packed you had to raise out the stop if you were weak on the rap put the beat box in the back movin the crowd was the thing servin them all with the dream no matter how bad it seemed kept our eyes on the prize always strivin for more raise up in the ghetto fast times strugglin, bubblin and losin half way we be choosin missin all my homies restin six feet always keep your name in the streets make sure they know how we did it until we meet on the other side ride fo the cause and blaze one for you til we meet again stya up and tru
