As close as can be
But too close to see
The answer to this tangled equation
We twisted our minds
But still couldn't find
Solutions to this one simple question

A slow rewind
We're bound to find

It takes one to know one
It seems like we make a crowd
It's all in the numbers
The math is all wrong again
Will we ever get it right?

The moments we drew
Divided by two
Nothing will still add up to nothing
To have not to hold
To tell and be told
Now we are both lost in a circle

Of slow rewinds
We're bound to find

It takes one to know one
It seems like we make a crowd
It's all in the numbers
The math is all wrong again
Will we ever get it right?
