There's no fool like a young fool with wild and careless ways
Who forgets about tomorrow and lives just for today
If she could only realize the sorrow that's in store She'd try behaving on for sights and honky tonk no more
It breaks my heart to see her drinking there with tavern lights a shining in her hair She won't seem sweet sixteen tomorrow as today There's no fool like a young fool who throws her life away [ guitar ]
Now the dim lights and the drinking seems like fun I know
But she'll find out one morning that you reap just what you sowed

The sad part is she'll be alone once she starts to fall There's no fool like a young fool who thinks she knows it all
It breaks my heart...
