She's up to it again, old habits rarely die
Sh'e tying off her arm, getting ready for a ride
A sudden rush kicks in, takes control of everything
Soon she'll be numb, wishing she was clean

My heroin, my heroin princess needs to find, her way My heroin, heroin princess needs someone else, to save the day

Living on the streets is harder than i looks,
Walk a mile in her shoes and tell me what it's like to be hooked
Scrounging for a fix, a necessity she hates
She's higher than a kite, wishing she was straight

Track marks dot her arms, like dominos
How did she get this way, nobody knows
