Supreme Oppression

I am the tears on your cheek

Can you feel it?

I am the scream that wants out

Trapped inside

I am the weight on your shoulders

The Burden

I taste your sorrow and your pain

Feel your heart cold as ice

This path has led you astray

Fallen into the sea of pain

Splinters of a broken heart

Questions without an answer

You think you're in control

Then you become the things you hate

As you try to be everything

Without being your self

Just be your self

You're asking why this deep blue sky

Doesn't know when to sweep

All of your life you've looked for the one

To fill the void

I am this thing you have inside

I'm tearing you apart

Breaking down peace by peace

As I whisper your name

This path has led you astray

Fallen into the sea of pain

Splinters of a broken heart

Questions without an answer

You think you're in control

Then you become the things you hate

As you try to be everything

Without being your self

Just be your self
