They find their way into my head
Now it's impossible to think
They drink my breath on their way in
Now it's impossible to breathe
Did I dip meaning in the mud again
Wanna see just how dirty it will end

How can your absence be so wrong
How can your presence be so strong
How could I ever lose my head
How can your absence be so wrong
How can your presence be so strong
How did I let it get this bad

So we'll talk away our existence
And make it impossible to care
For words so listless and empty
Is silence impossible to bear
Did I dip meaning in the mud again

Wanna see just how dirty it will end

How can your absence be so wrong
How can your presence be so strong
How could I ever lose my head
How can your absence be so wrong
How can your presence be so strong
How did I let it get this bad

But words
Fall right off you mouth
Lingering and weightless
Where are they now?

How can your absence be so wrong
How can your presence be so strong
How could I ever lose my head
How can your absence be so wrong
How can your presence be so strong
How did I let it get this bad
