he leaves and i repeat letting go empty after i've given you all of me oh, my love
i've given you all of me
oh, i've...
these chalk-colored walls so bare they echo with moments passed what's left for taking?
exhaust trailing off in the distance what more can i say than i miss this?
no matter how many times i'm next to you it still kills just as much to see you go
oh, my love
i've given all of me
oh, i've...

this heart is so innocent so easily filled by patience for more to come we'll wait for another day and others and still yet unsure when this will end
it still kills just as much to see you walk away i'm desperate for the words that could make you stay and still i know i have to let you go
oh, my love
i've given you all me
oh, i've...
