my dear one
you seem to have lost your touch so goes the precept
so goes your thoughts on paper thin sheets of paper i'm wrapped in sheets, paper thin neon lights flicker
seduction from hotel beds
a mediocre whisper
feel something
overheard in the dark
a temperate self-disclosure
you're the one continuous antagonist of my thoughts movement from a faucet as water outlines definitions washed away and statues stare down those that wish to see them crumble

significant others lose significance we waste away
we waste something
i am slowly sinking sinking slowly
i am weightless
overheard in the dark
