I can't say that I lack all of any sort of redeeming qualities

I can't say that I've done nothing of mention

Which I really haven't done

But there is one thing common unto

Humanity beings you and me

There's nowhere left to run to anymore

There's nowhere left to run

The seeking of the care

Can't it be the wherewithal

Of dawning light

Unilateral friendship

And the need to pull it in two

See it in the lane

Flag it down like pain

Then stair the apathetic air

Then when we knew who we rent

We buy more like we threw away as spent

So if we think

That our life's on the brink

It just may be

Indemnity

Collapse the race

And roar the crowd

The wonderlust is for the proud

Sound of interminable malaise

I hope it pays one of these days

We who all prowl inane

Without in toto

Cause it takes more effort to be a pest

To be a naysay

That we can do more

And that we won't do shit

Never are we here
And everything in it
Yeah, well
There just isn't

There ain't nowhere left to run to anymore

You think it's all in fun
You think it's all done
But when you need a place to go
And there ain't anything you know of
