You wanted somewhat of a change
No I don't find that strange
Just reasonable
To think that when your life goes fast
You have to take a look and make it go slow
Before your life has passed
You have to shift on a dime
The thought it be the time you never bought
I know you work for tips
So baby purse your lips

A breakdown when we knew not what we were
And do not divulge information
That you feel will hurt you
But that's all we are alive to do
To give more than we are
To be much more than we have
To stoke up the fires and learn

I want rumination lockstep with innovation
I want to hear of all I knew nothing about
I want to devout all my sentience and clout
To finding out what you are thinking of this
A rolling in the hay sounds great to me
Our bodies mesh so openly
With our wall down we install
Something better than us all
