It sure looked good on paper until we read between the lines

It always hurts when you fight

You're running out of 'laters' and 'maybe next times'

When you can almost read her mind

She likes the romance, the slow dance

The staying out all night

She likes the Christmas lights, all year round

Why put 'em up, take 'em down?

She watches baseball, hates the mall

And hangs out with the guys

That's what I know about what she likes

About what she likes

She's all about the rainbow

But not the one on Sunset Boulevard

I got it wrong, she took it hard

And it really hurts to let go

When you're so close, to makin' it so far

She likes the romance, the slow dance

The staying out all night

She likes the Christmas lights, all year round

Why put 'em up, take 'em down?

She watches baseball, hates the mall

And hangs out with the guys

That's what I know about what she likes

About what she likes

I should've known that I

Never could've known that I

Could ever know enough about her

To keep her mine

She likes the romance, the slow dance

That keeps me up all night

She likes the Christmas lights, all year round

And I just took 'em down

She watches baseball, hates the mall
And now I realized
What the hell do I know
About what she likes

She likes the romance, the slow dance
The staying out all night
She likes the Christmas lights, all year round
Why put 'em up, take 'em down?

She watches baseball, hates the mall
And hangs out with the guys
That's what she likes, na, na, na, na, na, na
That's what she likes, na, na, na, na, na
That's what she likes, that's what she likes
