You better crawl on your knees the next time you say that you love me fall on your knees, cuz this time I won't be so kind can't you see that this is life and life is killing me is it yours? is it mine? our sky fell down tonight, to wash away our pain tell me, over and over and over and over and over again

it never was time for us, it never was time to let me in show me, over and over and over and over and over
again

you better see how evil you can be when you see my evil smile it's the one that you'll remember when I am not so kind can't you see that this is death and death is saving me I say burn all your bridges while you still have control of the flame

I know it's hard but you...

you've hardened to the point you're hard and to the point

again
(hardened to the point)
show me, over and over and over and over and over
again
(hard and to the point)
it never was time for us, it never was time to let me in
