roll over on your side if it eases you nobody sees nobody seems to care that the sun is no longer there out on the ledge today the eyes of old start to rain turn the pages watch the story unfold the seasons left you dry aged and deprived it was so much easier i knew we'd look back at our tears and laugh but i never thought we'd look back at our laughter and cry if it makes it easier on yo i'll dry these tears for you if it makes it easier on you i'll dry these tears and watch the sickness take your breath away seventeen holding on didn't have the strength to say goodbye goodbye to you you mean so much to me but its too late now you were my best friend you mean so much to me i just want you to know that i love you
