She lost her focus yesterday
She lost her focus in the sun
She sits and stares at it for hours
She says she likes to go outside
She gets hung up on the wind
She gets lost inside the happy noise
Sometimes I don't understand her
Sometimes I don't want to Understand her
She says no no no no
She don't want no double life
She says I should know why
She seems happier at night
Her color TV and her chemical smile
I don't want to know the reason
I don't want to know the reason why
She says
Jesus owes her money
She says
That the angels are her friends
What in the hell does that mean?
She's got the chemical smile
People you know
Try to tell you things
Bad things that you don't Want to know about
Tell you tomorrow what
You did today
Just remember, it's a small town
It's a real small town
She gets she's tired of
All the stupid boys
She can't wait until

They're done
She wants a man who can Take his time
She wants someone
Who can make her come
Yeah, can you make me come
You always say you want a simple life
You and me both know that you are a liar

You always say you want a simple life
Hearing you talk just makes me tired
Swim in the heavy water
Buried in the sand
Happy hearts fall from my shaky hands
I can't hide my sexual life
He always says he wants to find a special one
But you watch his head go spinning around
He really wants anyone who'll give it up
He seems to forget he's in a small town
You always say
You never fuck around
You say this town
Is just plain full of liars
Yeah you always say
Hey, hearing you talk
Just makes me tired
Swimming in the heavy water
Buried the sand
Happy hearts fall from my stupid hands
My sexual life
