The wolves carries my name
In their midnight speeches
And that quiet subtle voice
Is summoning me from afar

And a voice much closer
Screams to me with unholy impatience
And the weight of your soul
Will decide it's final resting place

As light is our darkness
We seek the day
But when the shades of the night comes
It chases my strength away

I've seen unknown lands
No map has ever charted
And I lived in the deserts
And the wastelands

And I have spoken with the demons
And the souls of the slaughtered
And the weight of my soul
Will decide it's final resting place

As light is our darkness
We seek the day
But when the shades of the night comes
It chases my strength away
