There's an awfully big world
Out in front of such a small girl
You've decided that you're leaving
And you're not afraid
So you're going to leave it all behind you
And go where you think my love won't find you
But striking out alone
Doesn't mean that you're brave

I'll let you go
But I will follow

I'll be around
Because your heart will break
But I know that you don't want to hear that now
I'll be around
That will never change
So when you're lonely and this world has let you down
I'll be around

You are so courageous

Your destiny is greatness
I can see tomorrow's promise
When I look in your eyes
But the path laid out before you
Has the power to destroy you
And I hope that you won't falter
Because of your pride

I love you still
I always will

I understand you feel the need to test your newfound freedom
I'm on my knees praying you will find the truth you're seeking
I'll be right beside you if you ever need a friend

You're on your own
But you're not alone
I know God's love will lead your heart back home
