You've been on my mind, on the flight home
Cause we've been running high, we've been running low
See the city lights getting so small
So don't forget to write, don't forget to call

Oh oh yeah yeah
Oh oh yeah yeah

I would rather lose it all
Than to find myself in a perfect life without you
Cause I would rather leave behind a dream come true,
Than to wake up in an empty world without you
In a world without you

Interstate calls from a pay phone
Enough small talk, when are you coming home?
I try to memorize the lines on your face
But right before my eyes you're gone without a trace

And I would rather lose it all
Than to find myself in a perfect life without you
I would rather leave behind a dream come true
Than to wake up in an empty world without you
In a world without you

I would rather lose it all
Than to find myself in a perfect life without you

I would rather lose it all
Than to find myself in a perfect life without you
I would rather leave behind a dream come true
Than to wake up in an empty world without you
In a world without you

Oh oh yeah yeah
Oh oh yeah yeah
Oh oh yeah yeah
