Leaving your tears on my shoulder
Your eyes beg me to stay.
We were finally changing.
It's our luck, we're a little too late.
I'd take you with me if there was a way.
Sorry, don't cut it so I say,

Take all of your doubts,
You can throw 'em out.
You may be unsure, but I know
I'm always coming back.
You can bet on that,
You're the only place I call home.
Near or far, where you are is where I want to be.
Every lonely night,
Every drunken fight,
Gonna make it right, I know.
If it hurts you bad,
Put it on my tab,
I can pay it back tenfold.
You're the only place I've ever called my home.

Years pass, we're growing older
And you're not sure you can wait.
So I promise, it won't always be like this.
You say, "It's always the same."
We're falling apart if you think so
I'm holding on even if you let go.

Take all of your doubts,
You can throw 'em out.
You may be unsure, but I know
I'm always coming back.
You can bet on that,
You're the only place I call home.
Near or far, where you are is where I want to be.
Every lonely night,
Every drunken fight,
Gonna make it right, I know.
If it hurts you bad,
Put it on my tab,

I can pay it back tenfold.
You're the only place I've ever called my home.

If I had my way
You'd fill these empty beds.
Someday I'll come back for you
And never leave again.

Take all of your doubts,
You can throw 'em out.
You may be unsure, but I know
I'm always coming back.
You can bet on that,
You're the only place I call home.
Near or far, where you are is where I want to be.
Every lonely night,
Every drunken fight,
Gonna make it right, I know.
If it hurts you bad,
Put it on my tab,
I can pay it back tenfold.
You're the only place I've ever called my home.
