

Every Time I Die

"Drag King"

A proud hush had taken hold and you worshiped at its feet.

But calm was not long for this world.

Calm was not long for this world.

I took up arms and you begged to let it be,

But reason don't live here no more.

Reason don't live here no more.

Step aside, it's not worth your life.

What is this "peace" that you sneak off to at night?

What sacred spot will I be buried in

When I have covered every inch of land in terribleness?

I have declared a war on the silence before the storm.

[x2]

Don't stop to think.

Just end all good things while you can.

End all good things while you can.

Ruin all the love that you have

Or that god damned thing is bound to come back in spades.

Step aside, it's not worth your life.

I am the fear that drags you into the light.

I've covered every inch of land in terribleness,

By leading a war on the silence before the storm.

Take the stillness out back and put it on its knees.

Stop your crying.

Who do you love anyway?

Who do you love?

What does he have that I don't?

What does he have that I don't?

What does he have that I don't, except you?

What does he have that I don't?

What does he have that I don't?

What does he have that I don't, except you?
