imagine waking unaware the light of heaven touched your hair morning struggled sun was here and gone born into empty air the signals changed the engines flared there's a place you know i'm always there ride on the early train past the wedding in the rain they closed the opened door and the white smoke blew away

and never made a dumb mistake to eat your orange and your cake but never say your good luck isn't there if i could speak with you about a hundred things i'd say dear friend it's true all that you say and these days that passed through time you closed your eyes you could see the lights of te touan shine in the morning you were drinking again and born into wealth and care imagine waking unaware and there's a place you know i never dare

if i could speak with you it sure a hundred years away

so eat your orange and your cake
hey...never say your good luck isn't there
