mother sleeps mother weeps i pray the souls i wish to keep to make thing better put them back together hold forever in the palm of my hand. burning bright by candlelight anxious souls don't sleep at night they stay apart to break their hearts there's nothing left just play the part.
in her hands the prophecy she holds up the world to see then into the clouds she dissapears you can't hide from your own fears. a tender kiss turns bitterness look quick or you'll miss in a blink of her evil eye she went from gentleness to wickedness. now i'm the monster in the woods i'd play with you if i could but there is danger in strangers i stay away for my own good. your hide and seek is getting weak inside the bruise your incomplete with one fell swoop and into the black baby fall from grace better watch your back. backbiter you can't hide her you can't change i'm inside of her your poison mind has gone over the line there will be no stopping this time.
