juan:

your little body's slowly breaking down you're losing speed, you're losing... strength, not style that goes on, flourishing forever but your eyes; your smile do not have the sparkle of your fantastic past if you climb one more mountain, it could be your last

eva:

i'm not that ill
bad moments come, but they go some days are fine, some a little bit harder but that doesn't mean we should give up our dream, have you ever seen me defeated?
don't you forget what i've been through and yet i'm still standing

juan (spoken, whispered):

eva, you are dying

eva:

so what happens now? where am i going to?

juan:

don't ask anymore
