There's trouble in your eyes
You can see it for miles
Something's wrong
You haven't been yourself
You've been distant and secretive.

Why would you say nothing's wrong
When its written on your face

Let me in, let me in
You're so far from where I'm standing
Let me know, let me know
I can't help if you won't let me in.

Where's the light, the one that used to shine
It has long burned out and lost its glow
Where's your fight? Are you just giving up?
Tell me what to do.

Why would you say nothing's wrong
When it's written on your face

Let me in, let me in
You're so far from where I'm standing
Let me know, let me know
I can't help if you won't let me in.

I hope one day you'll find what you're seeking
I know one day you'll show what you're hiding.
What you're hidingâ€¦. What are you hiding?

Let me in, let me in
You're so far from where I'm standing
Let me know, let me know
I can't help if you won't let me in.
